Transformations Inc.

with the award for

Excellence in Private Sector Leadership

Transformations Inc., a residential development company based in Townsend, is pioneering zero net energy homes in the Commonwealth. In 2008, the company was chosen to participate in Governor Patrick's Zero Energy Challenge. Carter Scott, president of Transformations Inc., brought together a team that surpassed expectations by designing and building an affordable three-bedroom home called "the Needham" which produces more energy than it uses. As the world struggles towards an energy future that is sustainable and affordable, Transformations Inc. stands out, ready to lead the way.
